Hello!

My name is João.

I am an enthusiast of technology, and more recently, an enthusiast of web development, specifically front-end development.

My working experience has not always been in development-related fields, but the pandemic has shifted my perspective.

As a self-taught musician for 15 years, I have gained experience in setting goals, planning, and achieving them through hard work and hours of study. I understand the importance of dedication and perseverance.

With the temporary halt of my musical career, I felt the desire to set new challenges just as exciting as music. I had previous experience with coding in Java in higher education, but I rediscovered my passion for programming through self-study of Python and eventually JavaScript. I found a love for front-end development through HTML, CSS, and logic and algorithms.

My daily routine now consists of studying and my progress has been steady. I am eager to enter the job market within this field and continue my evolution as a developer. I am aware that it will not be easy, as there are many qualified candidates, but I believe that my passion, dedication, and willingness to learn make me an asset to any company.

I would appreciate the opportunity to have a conversation with you to discuss how I can contribute to your company and if I am a good fit for your organization.
